MCMAHUS CAT 369 1/99

Howes J78. Sabin 35895. Vail 760. Clark I:262. Sowerby IV. pp.301-30. Adams, The Eye of Thomas Jefferson 57. The first English edition of Jefferson's famous work. This is the only book-length work by Jefferson to be published in his lifetime, and has been called "one of America's first permanent literary and intellectual landmarks." It was largely written in 1781 and first published in Paris, in French, in 1785. Written in the form of answers to questions about Virginia, the book supplies a description of the geography, with an abundance of supporting material and unusual information. As J.M.Edelstein notes: "Jefferson wrote about things which interested him deeply and about which he knew a great deal: the Notes, therefore, throws a fascinating light on his tastes, curiosities, and political and social opinions." The handsome map which accompanies this edition (but is often lacking), based on the Fry and (Peter) Jefferson map, was not issued with the Paris editions. The story of the creation of this book and its publishing history is an interesting one. It is told fully by Millicent Sowerby in her catalogue of Jefferson's library, where it occupies some thirty pages in small type.

A reply to the most principal arguments contained in a book, entitled, The baptism of the Holy Spirit without elementary water, demonstratively proved to be the true baptism of Christ. Signed William Wilkinson. In which Reply, his arguments are fairly refuted; and both water-baptism and the Lord's Supper plainly proved to be the commands of Jesus Christ, and to continue in force, until his second personal coming.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry must be supported by proper documentation and that the records should be kept up-to-date at all times. The second part of the document describes the various methods used to collect and analyze data, including interviews, surveys, and focus groups. It also discusses the challenges of data collection and the importance of ensuring the reliability and validity of the data. The third part of the document presents the results of the study, including the findings from the data analysis and the conclusions drawn from the study. The final part of the document discusses the implications of the study for future research and practice.

The document concludes with a summary of the key findings and a statement of the author's appreciation for the support and assistance provided by the research team and the funding agency. The author also expresses a commitment to continuing research in this area and to sharing the results of the study with the academic community and the public.

Valdivia's representations to the King of Spain on conditions in Chile, and the treatment of the Indians there.

The date of the present letter (though the British museum suggests 1615) cannot be earlier than 1620, for the context shows it to have been written in Spain after the author had completed his work in Chile, which he began in 1612 (cf. verso of leaf 1) and which continued eight years. He states (leaf 1, recto) that he was sent to Chile "29 años ha". Medina gives February 9, 1593 as the date of his departure from Lima and April 12 of the same year for his arrival in Santiago. cf. Medina, Biblioteca hispano-chilena, 1897, t. 1, p. 179-192.

"This idea of the uncertainty of the authorship of the 'Discurso' was so diligently inculcated for a century and a half by high authority, that in the edition of 1768 it was deemed needful to prove, by a formal dissertation, that Mariana wrote it; a point about which there should never have been any question."—Ticknor: History of Spanish literature.
